The Burton Center for Arts and Technology offers classes to get your GED, learn to speak English, learn a trade, prepare for your high school SAT test, and more. For the student who dropped out of school, he or she receives instruction in the five areas of the GED exam and on how to obtain and maintain a job.

Roanoke County Public Schools Department of Adult Education is self supporting from tuition and conference administrative charges. The Department continues to be the second largest training facility in Virginia. We respond to the business community by providing courses/seminars that relate to today's and tomorrow's issues and problems. If you or your business has a particular training need, please contact Adult Education at 857-5040 or 857-5042. One of your adult education representatives will contact you.
