Health conditions that result in chronic pain are more common with age. You may experience chronic pain due to arthritis, cancer, injury or surgery and pain can be difficult to manage.

We're here to help. Please let us know if you have a question or feedback by emailing info@seniornavigator.org. Be sure to include your city, county, or zip code so we can better meet your needs.

Managing Chronic Pain

- Medications can be important tools for managing chronic pain. More than 1 in 4 older adults have filled a prescription for an opioid pain medication within the past few years.
- When taking pain medications and opioids it's important to consider the side effects, when to reduce the amount of medication, and the risk of addiction.
- Since older adults use more medications than any other age group, be sure you understand why specific medications are needed and if there are other options for managing your chronic pain.
- You can find the resources and information you need to manage chronic pain and to connect with appropriate supports and services.
